Many, over one third of U.S. adults, find themselves to be single or single again. The purpose of this book is to present a Biblically-based approach to the growing unmarried population, their church leaders and others who love them to finding fulfillment and purpose. Readers will: .Understand that they are not alone with their challenges .Know that wholesome options exist for community and decision making .Be able to positively and with purpose, interact with others Because the book will: .Provide specific and metaphoric examples of successful practical application .Outline various techniques and mechanisms .Encourage unmarried people connect, serve and be served The book is divided into four distinct parts 1.What am I doing here? As modern society increases its assault upon the traditional family unit, it is creating increasing numbers of unmarried people in all demographics. Many, over one third of U.S. adults, find themselves to be single or single again. Singles are searching for their identities, fulfillment and purpose in just about every nook and cranny the world has to offer. There is a better way. 2.Focus on the person, not one s needs. Jesus mends many broken hearts. But, should this be His main function? Jesus can bind up broken hearts until the cows come home, but life is more than triage. Every person, single or not, is to be made (formed, shaped) into the image of Christ (Rom 8:29). Any singles ministry should hold this banner high with every event, sermon, teaching and communication falling under it. 3.Discovering one s...
