The psychical processes Involved in sense-perception show that the forming of an individual concept requires the presence of the object, and since general concepts are derived from individual concepts, it follows that no concept, Individual or general, can be taught without presenting the appropriate object or objects to the mind. The same is true in teaching ideas, particular or general. A conceptor ideals the product of the mind's action, and the act of perceiving an individual object requires the presence of the object. It follows from the above principle that no primary concept or idea can be taught through its word. A word can recall and represent a known concept or idea associated with it, but a word cannot summon a new idea into what has been called the presence chamber of the soul. The futile attempt to teach primary concepts and ideas through words is responsible...
