Gen. 1881, p. 413) three cases of hemeralopia associated with enlarged livers; nothing appreciable in the fundus of the eye. This author states that these associated conditions have been recognized for a long time, and he suggests that the treatment of hemeralopia by the ancients, by administering the liver of calves or sheep, was in consequence of their knowledge of the associated condition. As the works on diseases of the eye do not refer to hemeralopia consequent upon diseased liver, it may be well to emphasize that point here, so that those having cases of hemeralopia will examine into the condition of the liver. Galactagogue.--Through the columns of your very popular journal, I would like to call the attention of the profession to the remedy Nutrolactis, a galactagogue, prepared by the Roseberry Nutrolactis Co. of New York City. My attention was directed to this remedy a short time since, and ym limited experience with it has been attended with the most satisfactory results, as you will see from the report of the following cases: Case I.--Mrs. J., an American, aged twenty-eight years; has always enjoyed good health; tolerably robust; the mother of five children, the first and third of which were still-born; the second and fourth she was unable to nurse longer than six or eight weeks, one breast being disabled on account of retraction of the nipple, and the lacteal secretion completely ceasing In the other...
